Have you heard? Dr. Margi Gilmour is one. busy. woman. Couple her service as Interim Dean of Academic Affairs and Professor with ophthalmology services in the clinic and you begin to get a glimpse of what it's like to need a super power. Speaking of x-ray vision, the ophthalmology exam rooms still need love. Dr. Gilmour has developed a strong client base and she needs your help to keep the service robust and attractive. If you can see your way clear to enhance the service environments in the Veterinary Medical Hospital, please make your way to the reply button. You may like viewing your name on the door.

BECAUSE IT'S TOO HOT FOR GOLF »

Let's be honest, CVHS has some sugar daddies. So, Dads are special to us. But, they all have this problem: too many devices and not enough paradise. Here's a selection of suggestions that will break Pop loose from the grill and make his day. Purchase one of the paradise options below and we'll place Dad's name on the wall acknowledged from you.

- Just one dram - $2,000 to Small Animal Equipment - A wee bit of aged goodness
- Grey Goose - $1,500 to Central Sterilization - Could be Mandarin, could be Mango - bright and smart
- Make it a double - $500 to Ophthalmology - Guaranteed to see 'er, something
- Classic distilled - $200 to Facility Improvements - Keep it simple American corn
- But first, Irish (coffee) $100 to VMH Hospitality Services - everyone needs a good row

Have your own idea? Talk to me. Hit reply to gift Dad like a pro. Paradise is fleeting but his name will be on a plaque forever. Trust me, have you seen the name on our hospital?
