The Sorting Hat Has Spoken

As part of the wellness initiative for the CVM we launched a House System, a parody of the wizarding world of Harry Potter. Students, faculty and staff are sorted to houses based on individual characteristics. The houses are identified as Krull, Ewing, Iben and Camuti. Each individual house has it's own signature demon or other entity.

So this happened. I sorted to the cat house. Mmm...k.

You guessed it, House Camuti's sigil is feline. House characteristics are based on Dr. Louis Camuti, famously known as the "cat doctor" because he dedicated his practice solely to feline medicine. Apparently this was a foreign practice back-in-the-day. Our student House Vettters, Ashley Zeng ('22), Greg Yoast ('21) and Lyndsi Vaughn ('20) do a purrrfect job welcoming us rodent stalkers.

"Healing with Heart" is our house motto and the bobcat sigil is defined as a symbol of intelligence, solitude, strategy and patience. Brilliant strategists are associated with House Camuti.

What's more? The Camuti house color is (what else?), orange. A mixture of warm colors associated with happiness and energy, the color orange promotes compassion, creativity, success, and fascination.

That pretty much sums up the best house! I mean, in comparison to demon parasites and wildlings, right? Beg to differ you say? Fine. The Felis catus peeps are above all, carnivorous.
