Action Speaks

How will alumni programs look if issues important to us are recognized and addressed?

Generally, characteristics in common might look something like this.

Shared and understood values.

Diversified perspectives.

Encouraged and partnered efforts.

What you can do.

- Engage with legislators on the importance of veterinary education and public health in the state and environment.
- Inspire students from rural communities to realize their dreams of becoming veterinarians.
- Enhance the image of your Alma Mater through competent and professional service.
- Advance production and livestock market veterinary collaboration through awareness of CVHS services.

Who makes CVHS the ultimate provider in veterinary education in the State of Oklahoma and beyond?

You do.
