Wellness Program Makes JAVMA News

We are excited about a new initiative to prioritize well-being for students, faculty, staff and house officers in the clinical year.

The work being done here at OSU's College of Veterinary Medicine was recently highlighted in a JAVMA article. Read the full story at Prioritizing Well-Being.

Pet Memorial Donations

Pet memorial donations to the Companion Animal Fund can now be submitted online through the OSU Foundation at Companion Animal Fund.

The fund was established for veterinarians, pet owners and friends of pet owners to acknowledge the life and death of companion animals as an avenue to show sympathy and support for grieving pet owners.

Cards are sent to pet owners when a donation is made in their pet's memory. Funds support the diagnosis, treatment and prevention of animal diseases including those transmissible to people.

Getting to Know You

Alison Heitz, RVT, is a registered veterinary technician in the Kirkpatrick Foundation Small Animal Critical Care Unit at the college's Veterinary Medical Hospital. Originally from Rantoul, Illinois, she lived in Texas for many years before moving to Stillwater. Alison holds an AAS degree in Veterinary Technology from Murray State College.

In her spare time, Alison enjoys being with her significant other, William, reading and trying new restaurants.
