

Net Vet Weekly - October 21, 2019

Dr. Taylor Named Vet of the Year!

Congratulations to Dr. Eddie Taylor ('85) on being named the 2019 Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association/Zoetis Veterinarian of the Year! Taylor spent 32 years as the attending veterinarian at La Fiesta de los Vaqueros in Tucson, Arizona.

Read the full story at Taylor Named 2019 PRCA Zoetis Vet of the Year.

National Vet Tech Week

Last week we celebrated National Veterinary Technician Week, including a Technician Appreciation Banquet.

According to Dr. Jeff Studer, hospital director, our technicians' level of expertise and skills is unparalleled in this region. Read more at Celebrating National Vet Tech Week.

Getting to Know You

Congratulations, Dr. Ranjan!

Congratulations to Dr. Ashish Ranjan on securing funding to pursue a device directed nanomedicine program!

Ranjan and his team recently received nearly $2.5 million for research from the National Cancer Institute, Petco Foundation and the Focused Ultrasound Foundation.

Read more at Dr. Ranjan Receives Funding for Device Directed Nanomedicine Program.

Congratulations, Anna Soto!

Congratulations to Anna Soto, RVT, on being named 2019 Technician of the Year! Soto is a registered veterinary technician in the small animal surgery service.

Dr. Schoonover Leads Clinical Trial

Melissa Magazu is a veterinary assistant at the Veterinary Medical Hospital. Originally from Woolwich Township, New Jersey, she graduated as a 1st Lieutenant from the New York Military Academy and attended Camden County College in the veterinary technology program.

Magazu loves emergency medicine but also has a great passion for and interest in ophthalmology. Her father, Dr. Mark F. Magazu taught at OSU in 1983.

In her spare time, Melissa enjoys being with her husband, Joey, and their three children ages 9, 5 and 1, being outdoors, going to the beach and traveling.

Favorite Quote: "If you don't do something because you're afraid of failure, you already failed." - her father, Dr. Mark F. Magazu

Dr. Mike Schoonover has partnered with Equine Amnio Solutions, LLC, to conduct clinical evaluation of RenoVo on equine limb wounds.

Schoonover is the lead investigator on this study, which is the first of several intended to evaluate the safety and clinical performance of the product in common horse injuries.

Read the full story at OSU Begins Clinical Study of RenoVo Equine Allograft.

Register for Fall Conference

Online registration is still open for our Fall Veterinary Conference.

The conference will be held on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 14 and 15, at Wes Watkins Center on the OSU Stillwater campus. Veterinarians and veterinary technicians are welcome in all tracks.

In addition to a great continuing education program, alumni activities include the CVM Alumni Society Annual Meeting, class reunions for years ending in '4' or '9' and the Distinguished Alumni Award Luncheon. Register now at Fall Conference.

*OSU College of Veterinary Medicine
308 McElroy Hall
Stillwater, OK 74078*

This email was sent by the OSU College of Veterinary Medicine through a partnership with the OSU Alumni Association. To change your Net Vet Weekly subscription, please email Derinda Blakeney.