

Elbow Hygroma Cases Wanted

The Focused Ultrasound Society is funding research to investigate therapeutic clearance of non-healing wound pathogens using a novel focused ultrasound technology. We need veterinarians to send us cases that have a chronic limb wound, such as an elbow hygroma.

There is no cost to the animal owner. For full details about the study and how to refer clients, please visit Elbow Hygroma Cases Wanted.

Bovine Wet Lab

Recently members of the student chapters of AABP, SFT, and AASRP conducted a bovine palpation and ultrasonography wet lab at the Center for Veterinary Health Sciences Ranch.

Getting to Know You

OSU Animal Relief Fund

With wildfires burning areas of Oklahoma and tornado season around the corner, we continue to be grateful for the donations to the OSU Animal Relief Fund. You may recall that this fund is used for veterinary surgical and medical treatment of animals injured in an Oklahoma disaster at no cost to their owners. See how you can at Help Oklahoma Animal Fire Victims.

Annual Honors Reception

Thanks to our generous donors, the veterinary center awarded $551,700 to 146 veterinary students.

Faculty members were also recognized including the Zoetis Award for Research and Zoetis Distinguished Teacher Award.

Congratulations to all who were honored last week! Visit 2018 Veterinary Center Honors for more details.
