2021 Opioid CE - Pain Management in Animals
Welcome to a new online continuing education course for veterinary professionals brought to you by the veterinary college and the Oklahoma Veterinary Board at a reduced rate.

This course satisfies the full 2-hour requirement for Oklahoma licenses.
large in vivo study, developed a droplet digital PCR assay, trained many graduate students in cell culture assays and molecular techniques and performed flow cytometry analysis for several NIH studies. Shannon goes above and beyond with a cheerful attitude, willing to tackle any task.

- Lisa Gallery, RVT, is a registered veterinary technician working in the ophthalmology service at the Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital. Lisa is committed to deepening her knowledge of the field. When the service was down a team member, Lisa worked hard to keep the team on track. Every day she keeps the work flow moving efficiently and is a wonderful team member.

- Stephanie Taylor is the sole data entry technician at Oklahoma Animal Disease Diagnostic Laboratory. She must work efficiently to avoid creating a bottleneck to testing while paying close attention to minute details. Any error creates problems downstream. Stephanie is focused, passionate about her job and follows up when problems are identified. She is also pleasant and professional when interacting with teammates and clients.

Music and Dogs

Dr. Katrina Meinkoth has been researching the effect of music on dogs to help the family's recent rescue dog, Petey. Read the full article at Music and Dogs.

2 Internships Available

Veterinary Clinical Sciences is seeking two Small Animal Emergency and Critical Care interns.
