Tots and Turtles

Thanks to the help of some enthusiastic youngsters, our avian, exotics, and zoo medicine team recently released seven young turtles as seen here in Tots and Turtles.

OSU Tick Experts Make Top 10 List

OSU tick experts were ranked among the best in the world! The strong foundation in parasitology initiated by Dr. Wendall Krull, continued by Drs. Sidney Ewing, Helen Jordan, Alan Kocan, Roger Panciera, Ed Blouin, and Katherine Kocan, and now highlighted by the National Center for Veterinary Parasitology, has produced some of the best experts in the world.

Currently, Oklahoma State University is ranked third worldwide in tick experts. Congratulations to Drs. Kelly Allen, Jose de la Fuente, Katherine Kocan, Susan Little, Yoko Nagamori, and Mason Reichard who all made the experts list. Many hours of dedication and research have gone into creating this level of expertise. See more at Worldwide Expertise in Ticks.

Dr. Hall Honored

Congratulations to Dr. Rod Hall ('77) on receiving the Oklahoma Cattlemen's Association Distinguished

Getting to Know You

Kelsea Studer, DVM, is the avian, exotics and zoological medicine intern. Originally from Dayton, Ohio, she earned her DVM degree from Lincoln Memorial University College of Veterinary Medicine as part of the inaugural class. Dr. Studer's research interests include emergency and critical care of exotic animals and analgesia (pain management) of exotic animals.

While in veterinary school, Kelsea founded an exotic animal rescue and helped rehome everything from rabbits to pot-bellied pigs. Her favorite exotic pet is the rat and she once owned five. In her spare time,
